

Bransford in Arcadia, or the Little Eohippus (Classic Reprint)

The wagon, homeward bound, made camp for the last night out at the Sinks of Lost River. Most of the men, worn with threescore nightguards, were buried under their tarps in the deep sleep of the weary; sound as that of the just, and much more common. By the low campfire a few yet lingered: oldtimers, iron men, whose wiry and seasoned strength was toil-proof and Leo Ballinger, for whom youth, excitement and unsated novelty served in lieu of fitness. The firelighters, working the wide range again from Ancho to Hueco, from the Mai Pais to Glencoe, fell silent now, to mark an unstaed miracle. The clustered lights of Rainbow s End shone redly, near and low. Beyond, above, dominant, the black, unbroken bulk of Rainbow Range shut out the east.(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of historical writings, such as: Philosophy, Classics, Science, Religion, History, Folklore and Mythology.Forgotten Books Classic Reprint Series utilizes the latest technology to regenerate facsimiles of historically important writings.
